

The 15 Best Sparkling Wines for the End of the Decade

by KALLE BERGMAN — DECEMBER 25, 2019

With Christmas out of the way, we can turn our wine focus towards bubbles for a few days – it is the end of a decade after all!

Whether cava, spumante, cremant or Champagne – we love how sparkling wines make every single moment more festive. And now, just in time for New Years – we've tested over 100 different sparklers to come up with a list of which wines you should put on your table as we enter the new decade. These are wines that are all worth their money, and they have one thing in common – they pair very well with food. So, print the list, and go visit your local wine pusher immediately!

DOMAINE CARNEROS.

Domaine Carneros La Reve Blanc de Blancs 2012 – $121

Winemaker's Note: A perfect Le Rêve with lovely notes of white flowers, Meyer lemon, poached pear and a hint of grilled pineapple. The palate opens up to honeysuckle and Crème brûlée. The full mouth feel leads to a very round and long finish. Delicious now, but there will be additional flavor benefits for those who can wait.

Domaine Carneros Ultra Brut 2014 – $45

Winemaker's Note: Exceptionally brisk and refreshing, look for notes of lemon zest, passion fruit and wild flower. With a surprising mouthwatering complexity, its bright, crisp fruit and dusty minerality ride on a serious structure, the persistent, palate-cleansing finish lingering on.
