9 Napa Valley Wineries That Are Worth the Drive From SF

P.S. One is a castle!

Domaine Carneros

Napa

Domaine Carneros uses the labor-intensive méthode traditionnelle (the one that's used in the Champagne region of France) to make its sparkling wine, and while that is certainly one draw, the other is the that you can enjoy your tasting on the terrace of a grand chateau with perfectly manicured formal gardens and views of vineyards. Splurge for "The Ultimate Chips & Dip" pairing and you'll sip your bubbles with Tsar Nicoulai Caviar and gourmet potato chips.

How to book: Walk-ins are allowed, but reservations are recommended, especially for the high-end experiences and tours. They can be made on Tock.
