"It is Mr. Parker's impressive reputation in fact that draws so many incredible wineries from around the world to New York City for the weekend, where wines from Portugal, Australia, France, New Zealand and Argentina are poured alongside some of the finest in the States. "

90 points or higher- for an unparalleled grand tasting affair. Though wine pairing dinners at some of Manhattan's finest restaurants would certainly punctuate the excellence of the annual weekend, Saturday afternoon would culminate in four hours of delicious. would go hand in hand in guiding g

The wines specifically chosen to be Advocate Reviewers, including Rob terrific wines. It is Mr. Parker's imp world to New York City for the week are poured alongside some of the finest in the States. we arrive just minutes after the day's 2pm start time to an already crowded ballroom. Inside, the roomful of well-dressed oenophiles are alternating between chatting extensively with each winemaker and jotting notes down inside their tasting guides. Here, there's more swirling and spitting than we're accustomed to seeing in Manhattan, a testament to the expert level of the clientele that attend "Matter of Taste," who seem to really enjoy discussing the wines more and more as the day unfolds.

"With nearly 200 highly rated wines from which to choose, only the most truly discerning of guests would bother searching for the flaws in so many impeccable bottles. For the rest of us though, it was about reveling in tasting some of the very best wines ever produced."
